

FPandA Manager (Part-Time) – 1 Day a Week – City of London

Description

Accountancy Capital | Confidential client

This is a flexible, part-time opportunity for an experienced FP&A professional. Our client is a fast-growing, mission-led technology services business in the City of London. It needs someone one day a week to take charge of planning and performance, and the days can be arranged to suit you.

You will turn financial data into clear, forward-looking insight that helps the leadership team make decisions about growth, funding and investment. You will also coach a small finance team as it develops its analytical skills.

Responsibilities

The role

- Running the annual budget and rolling forecasts, supported by a well-built, fully integrated financial model.
- Producing cash and runway forecasts to support funding and investor discussions.
- Tracking the metrics that drive a services business, including revenue per head, gross margin, resourcing levels and cost trends.
- Building scenario and sensitivity models for strategic choices, including possible acquisitions and investment.
- Producing clear monthly reporting packs for management and the board.
- Guiding junior finance colleagues and improving the team's modelling and reporting standards.

Qualifications

The person

- An ACA, ACCA or CIMA qualified accountant, or someone with a strong FP&A career background.
- Solid FP&A experience in a growth-stage or investor-backed environment.
- Experience of transaction modelling, due diligence or M&A support, which would be a real advantage.
- Advanced Excel and modelling skills, and the ability to present numbers clearly to non-finance leaders.
- A proactive, commercially minded business partner.
- The ability to attend the City of London office one day a week.
